Game of thrones: Battle of nations

Saturday 18 January 16:00 - 16:30

Location: Plenary room

Chair: M. Rouprêt, Paris (FR)

Aims and objectives of this session
In the Game of Thrones session, we will highlight challenges in the care of uro-oncological diseases at a national level. As there are more and more structured national groups involved in the research of oncology (national recommendation, trials, clinical research), we have invited experts from these recognized groups from the following three countries: France, Spain and Denmark. These lectures will highlight the complexity of dealing with research about oncological diseases in the genito-urinary system on a national level, how these leaders encompass their collaboration outside the border of their own countries and European collaboration with urologists, medical oncologist and radiotherapist through EAU & ESOU networking.
